MOAA UPDATES

From the President's Desk:

As we celebrate the Month of the Military Child this April, we are reminded of the unique challenges and sacrifices that military families face. Military children, in particular, often show remarkable resilience in the face of frequent moves, parental deployments, and the uncertainty that comes with military life. Let us take a moment to honor and support these young heroes who, though often unseen, play an integral role in the strength of our armed forces.

As chaplains, we have the privilege of leading others to God and offering a source of stability, especially to military children and families navigating times of transition. Let's continue to pray for their well-being and peace of mind as they grow and adapt to the ever-changing world around them.

Please take time this month to reflect on the strength and resilience of our military children and their families. Together, we can continue to support and encourage them, offering prayers and acts of kindness that reflect the love and stability we are called to share.
